THE INNOCENTS IN DANGER.

Another Seventh Ward School that is Dangerous to Children .-- The Condition of Grammar School No. 12.

The Ventilation Good, but the Ceilings Crumbling and Cracking.

A reporter of the HERALD yesterday called at Grammar School No. 12, in Madison street, near Jackson, as it was reported nearly as dangerous as No. 2, of which a description appeared in Tuesday's Hernald. The male principal, Mr. J. Delancy, was absent, but the reporter was afforded every facility by Miss Marsh, the principal of the female department; Miss Franklin, principal of the primary department, and Mr. Rodgers, a teacher of the boys department. These teachers scouted the idea that the building is as dangerous as Germany School the building is as dangerous as Grammar School No. 2, and only complain of want of room and urgent repairs. Escorted by Miss Franklin, the reporter first examined the lower floor or primary department, of which the following is

D.—Doors connecting rooms.

—Main front stairs (wood).

-Stairs—those in the front and those in front of the rear composed of wood, those descending to the open rear yard being of stone.

The structure is 100 feet square. The space beneath the assembly room, in the basement, is devoted to male and female play grounds, that on the left being used by the boys. The celling of the boys' play room is cracked in places and exceedingly dangerous, but as the ceiling is low the falling plaster would scarcely cause fatal injuries. The other ceilings of the basement appear to be all that could be desired. The ceilings of the primary department are in good condition, although slightly cracked, and sadly in need of the whitewash brush to render the rooms light and cheerful. The class rooms are quite large, and some of them are overcrowded somewhat. Taken as a whole this floor is entirely safe and likely to remain so for some time, as the plastering seems to sustain a firm hold upon the lathing around the cracks. The ntmost decorum characterizes Miss Franklin's little pupils, and the general arrangements are excellent.

ittle pupils, and the general arrangements are excellent.

THE FEMALE DEPARTMENT occupies the second floor, which is similarly arranged as that shown in the diagram, except that there are but two class rooms in the rear portion of the main structure instead of four. The class rooms on the front are larger, the ceilings high, the ventilation all that could be desired, and the plaster shows no serious injury except a few small cracks of an insignificant character. In the assembly room there is a very large patch of new plaster about ten by three feet, that gave way three years ago and, falling with great force, seriously injured one-of the girls. The plaster in this room, however, is quite safe, with the exception of about two square feet near this patch, shown by the letter A in the assembly room. The ceilings of the class room in the rear wings are good and evidently safe; but in the class rooms marked A are loose pieces that should at once be replaced to make them safe. Miss Marsh's classes are model ones, and the general arrangements, with the exception of those noted, are all that the most exacting could expect. The number in attendance is smaller than in the primary department, and consequently the class rooms are not overcrowded. The boys' department is immediately over this floor, and it is probably owing to the strain upon the floor caused by the marching of the boys that this ceiling is worse than the others.

the charge of Principal J. J. Delancy. The rooms

The school as a whole is an excellent one, and the plan of the building is well calculated to protect the children by fire or from other cause. The means of egress are numerous, as will be seen by a reference to the eight stairs shown by the asterisks () in the diagram. By these stairs there is ample opportunity to discharge the classes into the open yards on either side, from which they can easily make their way to Madison street by the entrance to the basement under the centre stairs and the front wings. The expenditure of $100 in repairs to the ceilings would probably be all sufficient to render the school thoroughly safe.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

Meeting of the Trustees of the College of the City of New York. The trustees of the College of the City of New York met yesterday afternoon at the rooms of the Board of Education, Grand and Chrystie streets, Bernard Smythe presiding.

A recommendation that students entering the college should be more fully prepared in certain parts of grammar, arithmetic and algebra was adopted, as was also the recommendation that cer-tain changes should occur in the mathematical course, by which more time should be devoted to tain changes should be devoted to this study.

The salaries of the President, Vice President and professors were all increased by $1,000 a year each, except in the case of the Vice President, who received an advance of only $500, his salary being thus made equal to that of each of the professors.

The trustees then adjourned.

Meeting of the Board of Commissioners. The Board of Commissioners, on adjournment of the trustees, went into session, President Smythe

A communication from some of the female teachers of Grammar School 49 was read, complaining that female teacher had been taken by the ward trustees from another school and placed in a position over them (the petitioners) in school 49, this being entirely at variance with the ordinary method of promotion. Commissioner Wood spoke strongly against the action of the ward on Teachers did not report soon on this grievance he would call for a special committee of investiga-tion, and if it were found that the Board was powerless in cases like this, he would advise the Legislature be asked this Winter to remedy the

Communications were received from Mayor Hall appointing Smith Ely, Jr., as Commissioner in place of Mr. Ingersoll, resigned; J. W. Booth, as Trustee for the Ninth ward, in place of Dr. Van Antwerp, resigned; and Frederick C. Wagner, as Antworp, resigned; and Frederick C. Wagner, as Trustee for the Seventeenth ward, in place of John Burns, resigned.

A communication was read from Judge Van Vorst, intended as a larewell to his late associates, and which included his endorsement of the labors and the success of the department. On motion of Commissioner Jarvis, a resolution congratulating Judge Van Vorst on his accession to the Bench of the Superior Court was adopted, with an amendment by Commissioner Wood, that instead of only the names of the President and clerk being affixed to the resolution, the names of all the Commissioners should be appended, and the resolution being suitably engrossed, that it should then be presented to the Judge.

who are not getting them. The matter was referred to be attended to.

It was announced again that the financial supply for 1878 will be based upon the returns of 1872.

It was resolved to request the Comptroller to deposit to the credit of the City Chamberlain the sum of $400,000 of the school moneys for the use of the Board for the balance of the year.

The Committee on Finance are to consider whether or not there are funds enough to meet an expense of $20,000 for a proposed new school of chemistry in connection with the Evening High School.

School.

The salary of the Principal of the Evening High School was advanced to $1,200 for the term.

The subject of instituting a class of telegraphy in connection with the Normal College and some one of the grammar schools was deferred, it being deemed better to wait until the completion of the new Normal College building.

The Board unanimously ordered that $2,000, out of the appropriation for repairs of buildings, &c., be expended in putting Grammar School No. 2, of the Seventh ward, in something like a proper condition.

The Board then adjourned.

THE DEMORALIZED POLICE.

The Reorganization of the Park Police-Lax Discipline and Insolent Behavior

among the members of the Park police. Every-where the Herald's report of the views of Colonel Stebbins and Comptroller Green in regard to the proposed reorganization of the Park force was the principal subject of conversation. There seems to be no doubt that the force is, as Colonel Stebbins said on Tues "demoralized," and the men feel instinctively that they are going to be "shaken up." A burglar policeman, like Aiken, could not possibly exist in the force, because there are no valuable buildings to be watched, but still there are a large number of cases of gross misconduct on the part of the men. The Park Commissioners the last few months have had to try many men for intoxication for staying in buildings while they ought to have been on their posts and for other causes. The dis been on their posts and for other causes. The discipline seems to have been very lax of late, and it will be some time before the thorough efficiency of the force can be restored.

THE REDRIGANIZED PARE POLICE.

The Park Commissioners intend soon to reorganize the force. They want to bring it up to the very highest standard of efficiency, and have adopted the pian of reorganization proposed by Mr. Fred Law Olmsted and published in yesterday's HERALD. A representative of the HERALD conversed yesterday with the Park Commissioners on this subject. Mr. Stebbins, the President of the Board, gave his views very freely to the reporter. "The force," said Mr. Stebbins, "does not work with the desires of the Board. There are bad elements in it, which must be left out, and there is a lamentable lack of discipline. The force, as reorganized, will undoubtedly meet the highest expectations of the Board and of the citizens of New York."

LAX DISCIPLINE is not the only clarge that has been preferred against the men. Many of them have assumed an insolent tone towards visitors in the Park, and when anybody falls into an error simply through ignorance and thoughtlessness the policemen rebuke them in such an insolent, impathent manner that they provoke resistance. This insolent conduct of some of the men has led to a number of complaints, and is extensively referred to in the report of Mr. Olmsted. The great difficulty is that many of the men have been appointed not on account of their merit or their fitness, but through the influence of politicians who wanted to get places for their friends. The portion of Mr. Olmsted's report which refers to this difficulty is very significant:—

THE INFLUENCE OF POLITICIANS.

Selection of many of the men now on the force has unquestionably been made less with a consideration of their qualifications than with a view to the granification of persons having not the smallest accountability for the character of the Pars, and neither interest in nor knowledge of the kind of service desirable to be secured in its police. Many of those thus appointed have been of irregular life and improvident habits, unwilling to work as laborers and unable to gain a livelihood many regular trade.

These misfortunes, with, perhaps, the fact of their possessing a large acquaintance and influence with it which can be used politically, have been, in fact, the grounds of their appointment.

Bio PAY AND LITTLE WORK.

It is hardly necessary to point out that, while such men may long avoid conviction for offences under which they would incur dismissal, their disposition and habits are such as to make them much harder to train into a desirable class of parkkepers than would be the average steady and industrious day laborer. Nor is it necessary to explain that the influence of even a small number of such men must have been had upon the character of the whole force, leading it toward a general habit of personal that the influence of even a small number of such men must have been had upon the character of the whole force, leading it toward a general habit of personal that the influence of even a small number of such men must have been had upon the character of the whole force, leading it toward a general habit of personal that the influence of even a small number of such men must have been had upon the character of the whole force leading it toward a general habit of personal that the influence of even a small number of such men must have been had upon the character of the whole force are not, as a class, sufficiently trained for their duties. Their training ought to be different from that of regular policemen. Here is the portion of Mr. Olmsted's report which trefers to this sub

The Board of Park Commissioners evidently intend to give the people a better and a reformed Park police, and the new plan of reorganization will probably be at once carried into execution.

ual regatta, a few weeks ago, in Flushing Bay, delighting many spectators with the novelty of the aquatic exhibition, all the canoes have gone into "Winter quarters;" but the leading members of the organization have not lost sight of the fact that repeated coming together during the season of now and ice is necessary to a perfect understanding among themselves regarding the campaign of 173. So, once a month until next June, and then as often as business, races and regattas will permit, often as business, races and regattas will permit, the members are to hold social reunions, talk canoe by the hour and adopt such additional rules and regulations as time may suggest. The next meeting of the club will be held in a few weeks, for the election of officers, and it is not improbable that the present Board will fill their respective places for a second year.

The secretary of the club, J. S. Mosher, M. D., in referring to the success of the club the first year of its existence, said a day or two since that the interest regarding its movements was quite wide-spread throughout the United States, and large numbers of letters asking for information upon all matters incidental to the building of the canoes and the club's organization had been received during the season, and we're still coming to hand. The majority of these were from gentlemen prominent in aquatic sports, and it was their intention after obtaining the knowledge sought to put it to a practical use with a view of endeavoring to build up and increase the pleasant and exhiirating pastime.

The canoes belonging to the New York Club at the end of the season numbered sixteen, and are as follows:—

What with yachting, boating and canoeing the waters around the metropolis will then be merry with many exciting contests.

POLICE MATTERS

Commissioner Henry Smith transferred his power as President of the Board of Police to Commissioner Manierre yesterday for the purpose of enabling the Board to carry on the work of the department until such time as Mr. Smith is again able to assume his duties. Mr. Manierre looked able to assume his duties. Mr. Manierre looked proportionately happy yesterday. It has for a long time been his ambition to fill the presidential chair, and there is no doubt now the department will be made to dance to the music of the new lyre until Mr. Smith makes his appearance upon the scene. There are many elements in the department that this temporary arrangement will suit exactly, but they are not among the friends of the invalided President, who feel the pain of his absence very severely. Roundsman McGloin, of the Fith precinct, was dismissed from the force, and it was about time. The extraordinary attachment that has suddenly spring up between the Superintendent and the temporary President is very remarkable. It is to be hoped it will be a lasting one, "a thing of beauty and a 10y forever."

THE HIBERNIAN DON JUAN.

Blue-Blooded Tenison in His Own Defence.

A Wife Too Loving to Pace a Corridor All Forlorn.

High and Lofty Professions of Social Consequence-Touching Lament for Fading Slimness-Everybody Referred to the History of England for the Pedigree of the Tenisons.

Henry Porter Tenison, now confined in the jall in this city on the charge of bigamy, has been visited by many citizens, among them Mayor East-man and some of the City Fathers. He still braves public opinion, as will be seen by the following commication in reply to an article in a local paper published in full in the HERALD a few days since It is in perfect keeping with his general style and deportment:—
My attention has this moment been called to an attack on my character. This editor knows what he has written is not true. This is the truth relative to my acquaintance with Miss Mapes, now my lawful wife, whom I never even wronged in thought from the first moment I beheld her. I loved perhaps not wisely, but too well. To account, in certain measure, for this Othello-worship, when sweet eighteen I was in love with her exact counterpart. It's true our first acquaintance was ever insuited a lady. I called on Mr. Mapes, told him who I was, before I ever thought of acting in leaving, gave me his card and a reference—Mr. Stetson, proprietor of the Astor House, where I stayed a considerable time—and he was kind enough to cash several of my checks, all of which were duly honored. I never made inquiries about Mr. Mapes, as it was his brown-eyed daughter I wanted, not his dollars. He also said his daughter was free to choose between me and some rich banker in New York, &c. He gave me every encouragement, and did not in any way prohibit my corresponding; and as I knew every word in that marriage notice was correct—(see Sir Bernard Burkes' account of Tenison family or Tennyson—they claim a descent from the pure Saxon—see History of England also)—my ancestor was the first bishop created by William of Orange—when I proposed for Miss Mapes I thought myself leaving, gave me his card and a reference-Mr. GOOD ENOUGH FOR THE PRINCESS ROYAL OF ENG-

let alone a retired captain's daughter in the merchant service. With regard to this villain Spalding every word he has written is a gross fabrication, invented because a woman he loved scorned his addresses after she had heard him asperse my character. I was near discharging an old retainer of my family from having missed several articles out of my wardrobe. I can now guess who the purioiner is. It's true I gave the Rev. Mr. Crary a check for $15, which was paid, as well as every note or check ever signed by me. I returned to Mr. Mapes like an honorable man, with references no man could dispute, and expected to have met a gentleman, when he unchained a St. Bernard dog, and he took precious good care to keep at the other side of him. He then, so far as I could hear from the braying of his canine protector, said, "No Irish need apply." I came back to the Morgan House and paid my bill, and they can vouch that

THE LINEAL DESCENDANT WAS NEITHER BATTERED NOB BRUISED.

I left that night and was pleased to meet some Toronto friends, Judge Dugan, his son, and Mr. Parsons, of the grm of Parsons, Thorne & Co. I breakfasted and lunched with the former parties, and now give them as references. I was introduced at Detroit to its leading merchants, also at the Russell House to Mr. John McMurrah, one of Canada's merchant princes, and be assured I never have nor never shall do any act to make him blush for having done so. My references for the truth of this assertion are Mr. Franklin Moore, Messrs. Farringtion & Campbell, proprietors Russell House. I also have in this saratoga trunk a letter from Moffatt Brothers, others of Toronto's merchant princes, men whose word is their bond, and who would not admit my would-be maligners into their private offices.

whose words their bond, and who would not admit my would-be maligners into their private offices.

I told Mrs. Tenison, on our way to Albany, my trunk was forwarded to Poughkeepsie, and I wished to remain over at the Delawan House, where its kind proprietor treated me as if I was a royal prince, though I had not a bit of luggage. My wife loved and still loves me too dearly to pace any corridor, when with a heart overflowing with love, was in a certain room called the bridal chamber. Mr. Morrow, whom I found after paying my bill at the Delawan House, saw the wretched state I was in, and he it was who told me Mapes had come and kidnapped his daughter with two detectives. I heard this, which made me believe I was not deserted willingly. If I thought for a moment otherwise, you may be sure I would not have ever come after her. I never saw nor-spoke to Miss Mapes until the morning Mr. Crary made us one "for better or for worse." Mr. Crary, as it rained, wanted to marry us in his house. I said, "No; a Tenison has been and always were married in a church generally by a bishon." The gentie.

Miss Mapes until the morning Mr. Crary made us one "ion' better or for worse." Mr. Crary, as it rained, wanted to marry us in his house. I said, "No; a Tenison has been and always were married in a church, generally by a bishop." The genileman then introduced us to his wife, who kindly acted as our witness; the other, Mr. Charles W. Daniels, Chamberlain's office, who, I believed, from his words of affection, to be my friend.

Two breakfasts this morning, and such Cuban cigars! Though! am Irish, every one has been so kind. He says he would not allude to the reception my wife received, or how this Mapes treated my wife, his only child. Nor shall I, but shall not forget it. Every letter I wrote since our separation has been directed to either her father's or mother's care. I never have been drunk in my life, and am pleased to say I am wrongully accused of having been that way. Mr. Seaman knows I was not, and it was he that requested me to take a glass of wine. Mrs. Tenison, as Mr. Seaman was a friend of her family, came out, not to look after me, but simply to say to her friend. I have just been matried to Mr. Tenison by Rev. Mr. Crary, &c.

The editor of the Engle may be in the habit of using seap for his mustache. I let my hairdresser or valet aftend to mine generally. I enclosed a letter received from Mr. Gook, a partner of Tifany & Co., New York, asking for instructions relative to my family plate. Mr. Mapes now has that letter in his possession. My references for business are Messrs. McKhilop, Sprague & Co., of New York, and Bradstreet & Co., of Detroit and New York. I am sorry to be obliged to drag my friends' names before the public, but this vice article left me no other alternative. I trust the papers that may unintentionally have copied it may also pub-lish my statement. Yours,
